Airline Economy
In an effort to climb out of their economic slump the nation's airlines are doing everything they can think of to save money. Some are curtailing service. Fares in certain categories - the family discount plan, for instance - are being raised. Eastern Airlines is raising the price of cocktails from $1 to $1.50. Some other carriers are following suit. An airline official, reports The New York Times, has said that "we haven't put in pay toilets yet. I don't think we will, but anything where you can ... earn some extra revenue is going to be looked into." Translated, that means: don't be surprised if on your next flight to New York you find aboard a pay loo, as the English refer to that accommodation. — Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier

DIRTY POLITICS

We have never been able to figure out why it is that every time we have an election there has to be some plain and fancy mud-slinging. For instance we have heard rumors about almost every candidate that in some instances would curl your hair. When we get to checking this out, we find that there is little or no truth in the matter or that it has become completely distorted.

Don't be a party to rumor mongering. Be sure that your facts are absolutely straight and irrefutable. We all just about politicians, but still they are human and they are just as proud of their names as you are of yours. It's rough enough without playing dirty. — Winter Haven (Fla.) Daily News-Chief

BOOSTER SHOT

A high voltage con man skittered through the country around Greensboro recently, striking several innocent victims. The Greensboro Better Business Bureau reported that a farmer was swindled out of $300 by a man who "recharged" his lightning rods.

Everybody else got a large charge out of that one. The farmer just thought it was shocking. The film flamm man was gone like lightning, knowing better than to strike twice in the same place. — Asheville (N.C.) Citizen

Wants Records of Arkla's Reserves, Sales

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Continental Oil Co. petitioned the state Public Service Commission Wednesday to subpoena Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. to all records on its gas reserves and sales of natural gas to industrial customers.

The PSC is holding a hearing to decide whether to withdraw its approval of industrial customer contracts because Arkla contends that industrial rates must be raised so that a pipeline can be built into the Anadarko Basin in Texas and Oklahoma. Arkla says the pipeline must be built to increase the supply of natural gas.

Most of Arkla's industrial customers are opposing the action.

Continental's petition asserts that the information is needed "for the purpose of showing a deliberate design and practice by Arkla for making industrial sales of natural gas ... in excess of Arkansas Louisiana's ability to perform such sales, all being a part of a deliberate and imprudent course of conduct which has resulted in direct and substantial harm and detriment to Continental."

An Arkla attorney said the utility planned to oppose the petition.

City to Vote on Water Rates

ATKINS, Ark. (AP) — Atkins voters will decide March 30 on whether to raise the city's water rates to finance the city's share of the cost of obtaining a new source of water.

The rates would be raised from $2.50 for the first 2,500 gallons of water to $4 for the first 2,000 gallons.

Court Moving Away From Liberalism

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court at mid-point in the 1970-71 term is moving right, away from the liberalism of the Warren years and toward the conservatism of President Nixon.

The trend is not entirely uniform. Women have won some measure of equal job rights and just Wednesday the court lifted the shadow of libel judgments from newspapers that delve into the personal backgrounds of political candidates.

But even if there are exceptions, the point to keep in mind is that Nixon has the capacity to accelerate the rightward move if a vacancy occurs while he is in the White House.

Presidents have been disappointed with the men they put on the court. Theodore Roosevelt was astonished at the liberalism of Oliver Wendell Holmes and Dwight D. Eisenhower was equally surprised by Earl Warren. Nixon is keeping his own counsel, but it would be hard to imagine him but pleased with the way Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Harry A. Blackmun have turned out.

The greatest single force in the court's rightward shift is the implacable conservatism of Burger and Blackmun.

In 47 decisions this term the two Nixon appointees have been on the same side 45 times. Their two votes often have carried the day.

Had they given their consent, Massachusetts would have had a hearing on its suit attacking constitutionality of the Vietnam war.

Memory, Where Prices Never Go Up, Is the Best Bargain Place

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Memory Land is the best place for bargains.

No prices ever go up there, nothing is ever thrown away, and nothing ever wears out. You can have a fine time reliving the past on a minimal budget and pay no charge at all for upkeep.

You don't have any transportation costs getting there either. All you have to do is close your eyes and remember when—

You could always get a laugh by asking an old-timer whether he slept with his beard under or over the bedsheet.

Bumpers to Fight for Income Tax, Threatens Sales Tax Hike Veto

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday that if his income tax bill is not approved by the legislature he would probably veto bills to raise the state sales tax.

Bumpers said the income tax bill defeated last week in the Senate will be his only income tax proposal "until the last dog dies."

The measure failed 25-8 and 23-6 with 27 votes needed for passage in the Senate last week, but Bumpers told a news conference Wednesday that he believed he might be able to persuade a sufficient number of senators and representatives to support the bill.

The governor said raising the money was not an issue — the issue was how to go about raising the money.

He said that if he did not think his income tax bill was the right course to follow, he would choose another method of obtaining revenue.

A bill has been introduced in the state Senate to increase the 3 per cent sales tax from 3 to 3½ per cent. A bill pending in the House would raise the rate to 4 per cent.

Bumpers said, however, that he did not desire the passage of either proposal. Asked if he would veto a sales tax bill, he said, "I don't want it to get on my desk."

But when newsmen persisted and asked if he would accept a sales tax rate increase should his income tax bill be rejected, the governor said he "probably" would not.

Bumpers said he would not completely close off the possibility that a different income tax proposal would be acceptable to him.

"If it would produce approximately the same amount of revenue and would be what I thought was good reform taxation, then I would accept it," he said.

Would Force Churches to Pay Taxes

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill was introduced Wednesday in the Arkansas House to require churches to pay property taxes on all property used for business, commercial, investment or purposes other than church purposes and to require them to pay state income tax on money earned through business activities.

The bill was introduced by Rep. B. D. "Doug" Brandon of Little Rock.

Rep. W. E. Beaumont of Little Rock introduced a resolution asking the state Pollution Control Commission and the Legislative Council to study the effect construction of nuclear plants has on the development of areas down river from the facilities.

Another administration prison bill was introduced Wednesday in the Senate.

The bill would provide that time taken off an inmate's sentence for good behavior would be granted under a system of merit only. Existing law provides up to eight days off for good behavior and provides that five additional days per month be deducted from a prison term if prison officials consider the inmates' conduct meritorious.

The bill would make all deducted time meritorious only and would increase the maximum amount of time that could be deducted to 30 days per month. If approved, the bill would, in effect, allow an inmate to cut his sentence in half through meritorious conduct.

Defense Rests in Calley Case

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — After two days on the witness stand, Lt. William L. Calley Jr. has left unanswered two major questions: How many civilians were killed at My Lai? How many did he kill?

To the question of why—the overshadowing question in Calley's murder trial—the lieutenant had a soldierly answer: "Because that is what I was instructed to do, sir."

At one point in his testimony when he referred to the My Lai shootings he said, "It wasn't any big deal."

The defense rested its case Wednesday with the end of Calley's testimony. The prosecution begins its rebuttal today by calling three Army psychiatrists who examined Calley at Walter Reed Medical Center in Washington.

The stubby lieutenant, testifying in answer to the government's charge of premeditated murder of 102 civilians that March 16, 1968, admitted he took part in a mass shooting at an irrigation ditch.

It was, Calley said, on a radioed order from Capt. Ernest Medina, his company commander, to "finish these people off as fast as possible."

"Now, at any time did you stop and consider the legality or illegality of those orders?" Calley was asked.

"No, sir," was the answer.

While Calley's testimony differed markedly at times from that of many of the 74 witnesses who preceded him to the stand, he agreed that it was Medina who handed down the killing orders.

Medina has been charged with over-all responsibility for the My Lai deaths and is undergoing pretrial investigation.

Dislikes Plan to Replace Prison Head

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers said Wednesday that he opposed an attempt to replace Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver by passing a House resolution declaring that the public would not support further prison improvement as long as Sarver was commissioner.

Rep. James C. Cole of Malvern introduced such a resolution Wednesday.

"I don't think the needs of the state, the prisons or any other department of state should be made secondary to the personal dislike of a particular department head," Bumpers told a news conference.

He said he had not asked Sarver to resign, nor had Sarver offered to resign.

More Troops to Be Sent Into Drive

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Additional thousands of South Vietnamese troops may be sent into Laos in the coming weeks before the U.S.-backed drive against enemy supply routes is ended, say Pentagon sources.

In the days before the Laotian offensive began Feb. 8, 22,000 South Vietnamese troops were reported moved into position for the assault. But only 10,200 have been used so far in Laos, U.S. officials indicate, with the remainder in reserve in South Vietnam.

During a news conference Wednesday, in which secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird denied Saigon's drive was bogged down, a top general said only "the first portion" of the plan to disrupt enemy supply lines had been accomplished.

Asked if this was a hint of more extensive or deeper South

U.S. Death Toll Mounts in Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today reported the highest weekly American death toll in Vietnam in 5½ months. A spokesman said there still was no forward movement by South Vietnamese forces in Laos, and a South Vietnamese base 10 miles across the border was reported under heavy mortar and rocket attack for the third day.

The increase in American deaths for the second successive week was attributed to the offensive in Laos to cut the Ho Chi Minh trail. The U.S. Command's weekly casualty summary said 59 Americans were killed in action and another 42 died of non-hostile causes, including helicopter accidents.

The total of 101 Americans was the largest since 125 died during the week of Aug. 30-Sept. 5 when 87 were killed in action and 38 died from accidents and

Fired Official Wants Hearing

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Chris Corbin, who was fired as superintendent of the Fort Smith Schools Feb. 9, has asked for a public hearing to challenge the validity of charges made against him.

The board fired Corbin in a 5-2 vote, alleging that he was not cooperating with board members and was not keeping the board properly informed of school business.

In this, he indicated, he was completely disappointed. But "We will not give up on negotiations," he said.

"There is the additional fact that as our forces decline, the role we can play on many aspects of a settlement is also bound to decline," he added.

Nixon appealed for trust in his leadership as he seeks to develop what he called a new, more restrained world role for the United States.

But the major concern of the message throughout was with what he called the "most anguishing problem" of Vietnam.

"Hanoi has made the war an Indochina conflict," Nixon stated, with some 240,000 North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, including a few Viet Cong in Cambodia.

"Enemy intentions and capabilities in Indochina will pose some hard choices about the deployment of allied troops as we pursue our withdrawals," he continued, and North Vietnamese actions (in Laos and Cambodia) could require high levels of American assistance and air operations in order to further Vietnamization and our withdrawals.

The theme of frustration in peacemaking and danger in world conditions pervaded other sections of the massive report.

Noting the Soviet Union's power position in the Middle East, the President said any great nation effort to dominate the area would "increase the

WASHINGTON (AP) President Nixon today charged Hanoi with broadening the Vietnam war into an Indochina conflict and predicted the United States and its allies will have more hard choices in combating possible new enemy thrusts in South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

In a globe-ranging report officially directed to Congress but aimed at the nation and the rest of the world, Nixon keyed his message to a quest for "a full generation of peace" this century. But, he said, "If winding down the war is my greatest satisfaction in foreign policy, the failure to end it is my deepest disappointment."

He pledged to continue the winding down, the U.S. troop withdrawal from South Vietnam. But in stark contrast to his declared global peace goal his projection for Indochina emphasized the broadened war and increased American aid and air support for allied ground forces.

The 65,000 word report, covering 180 pages and accompanied by a nationwide radio speech, was the second Nixon report on the role of the United States in world affairs since he took office.

Patterned after the constitutionally mandated State of the Union message, this White House overview of the world situation disclosed no new U.S. policy departures.

But details were outlined and it gave Nixon an opportunity to tell the story of his foreign and strategic policies at midpassage between the 1968 and 1972 elections.

Nixon sent the report, which has been in preparation for several months, to Congress under the title, "United States Foreign Policy for the 1970s—Building for Peace."

In discussing the Indochina crisis at considerable detail Nixon gave a deeply pessimistic report about the prospects for a negotiated settlement.

He had "frankly expected" some kind of action from the North Vietnamese-Viet Cong side last year, Nixon stated, when he expanded political principles for a settlement and appointed ambassador David Bruce as peace negotiator.

In this, he indicated, he was completely disappointed. But "We will not give up on negotiations," he said.

"There is the additional fact that as our forces decline, the role we can play on many aspects of a settlement is also bound to decline," he added.

Nixon appealed for trust in his leadership as he seeks to develop what he called a new, more restrained world role for the United States.

Arkansas in Store for Wet Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Arkansas is in store for more wet weather through Friday. However, the National Weather Service says that temperatures for the state will be on the mild side and there is only a slight chance of thunderstorms.

Showers were spawned throughout the state Wednesday night as a high pressure system moved through the state. Additional showers are expected as a cold front begins moving into the state Friday. But, the showers are expected to end after the front passes.

The cold front will bring cooler temperatures, but the weather service says the highs will still be in the 60s.

The highs Wednesday ranged from 61 at Jonesboro to 69 at El Dorado, Little Rock and Fort Smith.

Overnight lows were Fayetteville, 45; Harrison, 46; Jonesboro, 47; Pine Bluff, 51; Texarkana, 55; El Dorado, 52; Memphis, 48; Little Rock, 46; and Fort Smith, 48.

Cutback on Road Projects

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Highway Director Ward Goodman said that bids were not opened Wednesday on two federal aid construction projects because of President Nixon's decision to suspend the Davis-Bacon Act, which governs wages paid on construction project financed by the federal government.

The contracts contained a provision, as required by the act stipulating that wages paid to workmen employed on the contract job would be paid the prevailing wage of the geographic area as determined by the Labor Department.

Goodman said the contracts would be redrawn without that provision, then readvertised, and then the bids will be accepted.

The two projects were a $59,000 pedestrian overpass in Pine Bluff and a $2.8 million contract for construction of a section of the Wilbur D. Mills Freeway in Little Rock.

All Hope had to say was, "Well, it was strange sleeping with a stovepipe hat."

Tells of Help Given Beatles

LONDON (AP) — Allen Klein, manager of the Beatles, says he rescued the group from near insolvency, their income rising to $10.5 million in 1970 from $2.04 million in the year before he took over in 1969.

Klein, an American, sent an affidavit to a court hearing Wednesday on a petition by Paul McCartney to dissolve his partnership with Ringo Starr, George Harrison and John Lennon and have the Beatles' business affairs placed in the hands of a receiver.

An attorney for McCartney's partners said the guitarist opposed Klein's appointment as manager to succeed the late Brian Epstein and sought the job for his father-in-law, Lee Eastman, a New York lawyer.

House Alters Three Tax Measures

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House passed one of the minor bills in Gov. Dale Bumpers' revenue package Wednesday, but altered three other tax measures in ways opposed by the administration.

The House, beginning work on the $26 million program offered by Bumpers, approved a bill that actually is a tax reduction — a decrease in the real estate transfer tax from $3 per $1,000 of value to $1.10.

The bill, passed 89-5, was sent to the Senate for consideration after the House vote.

Amended were bills to repeal the use tax exemptions granted utilities and transportation companies, to reduce the merchants' discount for collecting the state sales tax from 2 to 1 per cent and to extend the sales tax to a number of services, principally repair services.

The Senate, meanwhile, approved a new congressional redistricting bill, supported by the state's four congressmen, killed a proposal that would have penalized counties for failing to meet the law's assessment standard.

The House amended the use tax exemption repeal bill to provide a four-step phaseout of the exemption rather than the two-step phaseout proposed by Bumpers. The vote was 55-39.

Rep. Frank Henslee of Pine Bluff persuaded the House to amend the services tax measure to impose the 3 per cent tax on advertising in newspapers and magazines and on billboards. The vote was 52-38.

The House went along with an amendment by Rep. P. K. Holmes of Newport to the merchants' discount bill to allow merchants to recoup taxes they pay on credit purchases by customers who later fail to pay their bills. The vote was 72-16.

Under current law, merchants cannot get repayment of the tax money they lose on bad debts. Rep. Leon Holsted of North Little Rock, arguing against the amendment, said he considered the loss a cost of doing business.

Final action on the three bills was put off because the amendments must be engrossed before the measures can be considered. Rep. W. F. Foster Sr., handler of the services bill, also withdrew the measure from consideration temporarily although other proposed amendments are pending on it.

The amendment by Rep. L. L. Bryan of Russellville to extend the period over which the use tax exemption would be repealed sparked heated debate.

The amendment would impose the tax at the rate of 1 per cent July 1, at 1½ per cent in July 1972, at 2 per cent in July 1973 and at the full 3 per cent in July 1974. An identical amendment was written into the Senate — passed version of the bill.

Bumpers proposed imposing 2 per cent of the tax this year and the full 3 per cent next year.

Bryan argued that his amendment would lessen the impact of the exemption repeal on the utilities and transportation companies. He and other representatives also said the change would give Arkansas Power & Light Co. a deserved tax savings on the construction of two nuclear generation plants near Russellville.

AP&L officials have said Bumpers' two-step approach would add $6 million to the cost of the construction. "The Arkansas Power & Light Co. is the largest taxpayer in the state and they deserve this amendment," said Rep. Charles R. Moore of Luxora.

If you give me the largest income in the state of Arkansas, I'll be glad to be the largest taxpayer," answered Rep. James C. Cole of Malvern.

In discussing the amendment, Cole told the House of an incident that he said occurred between him and W. R. "Witt" Stephens, president and board chairman of the Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co., while Cole said he knew while both were growing up in the same town and later when Stephens worked for AP&L.

Cole said that when he was 16 and Stephens was 18, the two and another youth were flipping nickels with the "odd man" winning the nickels. The representative said he was the "odd man" on one of the flips but that Stephens put his foot over Cole's nickel on the floor and claimed the money because he was bigger.

"That's what he learned from AP&L and that's what both of them have been doing ever since," Cole said.

"That's what he learned from AP&L and that's what both of them have been doing ever since," Cole said.

Rep. Cecil Alexander of Heber Springs said the House should "show the people of Arkansas we are willing to tax the real powerful lobbying group."

But Rep. John Bethell of Des Arc said that AP&L had done as much to assist the growth of the state as the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission had and added, "Now, we owe them something."

Rep. Julian Streett of Camden, opposing the amendment, said the state collected $3.5 million in taxes annually from the utilities although the yield would be $9.2 million if they were taxed at a rate equal to the national average.

The redistricting bill approved by the Senate on a 29-0 vote has only two slight differences from an earlier bill that was approved by the legislature and that has been signed by Bumpers.

The new bill, however, has a population variance of only about 1,200 persons between the four districts whereas the earlier proposal had a variance of about 15,000. Sen. Bill H. Walmsley of Batesville, who handled the new bill, said he doubted the constitutionality of a variance of 15,000.

The districts provided by the new bill are:

—1st District: Fulton, Izard, Sharp, Stone, Independence, Randolph, Clay, Lawrence, Greene, Jackson, Craighead, Poinsett, Mississippi, Woodruff, Cross, St. Francis, Crittenden, Monroe, Lee, Phillips and Van Buren.

—2nd District: Cleburne, Conway, Faulkner, White, Saline, Lonoke, Prairie and Arkansas.

—3rd District: Benton, Carroll, Boone, Marion, Baxter, Washington, Madison, Newton, Searcy, Crawford, Franklin, Johnson, Pope, Sebastian, Logan, Yell, Scott, Polk, Montgomery, Garland and Perry.

—4th District: Howard, Pike, Sevier, Little River, Hempstead, Hot Spring, Grant, Jefferson, Clark, Dallas, Cleveland, Lincoln, Desha, Nevada, Ouachita, Calhoun, Bradley, Drew, Miller, Lafayette, Columbia, Union, Ashley and Chicot.

The assessment bill, by Sen. Joe T. Ford of Little Rock, was defeated 11-17.

Present law already provides that counties shall have an assessment ratio of 20 per cent, but 57 counties have failed to adhere to that requirement.

The law provides a penalty for failure to maintain the proper assessment ratio, but the penalty does not take effect unless the ratio falls below 18 per cent. The 57 counties below 20 per cent are not subject to penalty because they have not gone beneath 18 per cent.

In other House action, the representatives approved the administration bill that would establish a system for preserving areas of unusual natural significance or of aesthetic value. The vote was 93-0.

The House approved 85-2 an administration bill to authorize a two-year pilot program for preparing children with hearing disorders for entrance into public schools.

The pilot program would be conducted at El Dorado. The State Education Department would decide after the pilot study whether the program should be extended statewide.

Union Ranks Frustrated by Strikes

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Frustration with strikes is now being expressed not only by management and the public, but by union members and leaders themselves, leading to a renewed study of voluntary arbitration as an alternative.

Earlier quests either led to deadlocks or were abandoned, but some authorities now feel that conditions and attitudes have so developed that possibilities are more real than in years.

A study is, in fact, now being made under the auspices of the American Arbitration Association, with the cooperation of such well known names as I.W. Abel, United Steelworkers president, and R. Heath Larry, U.S. Steel negotiator.

This isn't the first time voluntary, binding arbitration has been seriously considered. It has enjoyed vogue from time to time and has attained some acceptance in certain industries. Overall, however, it is still little used in resolving bargaining deadlocks.

Why might it be more acceptable now or in the future than it was in the past? Mainly because of the growing resentment of both labor and management, an angry public, and an administration that fears the economic consequences.

If all these factors are not yet fully on stage, says Donald Straus, president of the nonprofit AAA, they are least in the wings, and the time for the curtain-raising could be approaching.

The provocateur is inflation, or more precisely, the damage that inflation is doing to paychecks, profits and the economy. And the catalyst that might excite these factors is the clear and present danger to everyone. "There aren't many villains in this business," says Straus. "They are all people cast in their institutional roles and working to the best of their abilities."

Only if the dangers are clear and present can a statesmanlike attitude be taken by either side. Such conditions existed during World War II, for example, when wages were stabilized with few strikes. But do they exist today?

There is evidence that inflation is a destructive economic enemy, making American goods less competitive abroad, forcing workers to jog on a treadmill, destroying the living standards of those on fixed incomes.

illness. The U.S. Command reported 217 American troops wounded in action last week, the same as the week before.

The Saigon government reported 432 South Vietnamese killed in action last week, 46 less than the week before, and 1,446 wounded, 287 more than the previous week. The U.S. Command claimed allied forces killed 2,260 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos, the highest total claimed since last May.

U.S. officials say no American ground troops are taking part in the operation on the Laotian side of the border, but 9,000 of them are acting as a blocking force in the northern provinces of South Vietnam, and an estimated 500 U.S. helicopters are furnishing almost all of the air support for the South Vietnamese in Laos.

The U.S. Command has acknowledged the loss of 29 helicopters in operations on both sides of the border, with 40 Americans killed in them, 15 missing and 26 wounded. But scores of other helicopters have been damaged by enemy fire, and there has been no day-to-day report of casualties aboard these craft.

Meanwhile, small-scale but sharp fighting, ambushes and rocket and mortar attacks have taken a steady toll among the U.S. ground force east of the Laotian border.

danger to world peace."

In the nuclear arms race, he told Congress and the nation that what he termed greatly increased Soviet power could tempt Moscow into bolder and more dangerous probing of the West.

He also said the United States would like to begin improving relations with mainland China, but that nation continues "to cast us in the devil's role."

Nixon told the American people that he was trying to shape a new, less burdensome policy line for the United States in world affairs. He appealed for understanding and perhaps argued against any new swing into American isolationism.

To point up his approach to world affairs Nixon also covered these areas in his message:

Mideast
Nixon gave Moscow a barely concealed warning not to try to dominate the Middle East which he called militarily and economically vital to the Western alliance.

The United States recognizes "the Soviet Union has important interests" in the region, Nixon said. But he added the U.S. does not seek a dominant position and "we cannot allow others to establish one."

Soviet-U.S. Relations
The growth of Soviet nuclear power to parity with the United States "could tempt Soviet leaders into bolder challenges," Nixon said. Errors of judgment by Moscow may have contributed to the Middle East crisis last summer and to Soviet naval actions in the Caribbean last fall. Apparently Nixon meant that in its support for Egypt in moving anti-aircraft missiles close to the Suez Canal, and in the Caribbean cruises of nuclear submarines, the Soviet leadership was probing U.S. intentions and firmness.

"In our relations with the USSR," Nixon said, "there should be no misconceptions of the role we play in international affairs ... we prefer negotiation and restraint as the methods to adjust differences. But when challenged the United States will defend its interests and those of its allies."

Arms Limitation
Nixon virtually rejected a pending Soviet proposal to limit antiballistic missile systems apart from all other nuclear weapons systems.

The United States is expected to turn down the Russian proposal when the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks resume in Vienna March 15.

Nixon said meanwhile he would continue building the U.S. ABM system. "The strategic balance would be in danger if we limited defensive forces alone," Nixon said, "and left the offensive threat to our strategic forces unconstrained."

the number of women bystanders who swooned in the arms of their escorts.

There were mutterings of coming catastrophe in the land when the price of coffee in greasy spoon diners went up from a nickel to a dime, and drugstore soda counters threatened the security of childhood by doubling the cost of a five-cent ice cream cone.

If you shivered unexpectedly, someone was sure to say, "What happened—did a rabbit just run over your grave?"

The height of entertainment for a farmer was to drive into town on a Saturday, make his purchases at the feed store, and spend the rest of the afternoon on a bench outside the county courthouse making learned comments about the weather.

A woman showed exasperation by stamping her foot prettily, and a fellow could go years without ever hearing one swear in public.

Those were the days—remember?

MORE TROOPS (From Page One)

Vietnamese operations in Laos, Pentagon sources said it could be expected that additional large numbers of troops would be quickly brought into position by helicopters once the North Vietnamese response was determined.

According to Lt. Gen. John Vogt, director of the joint military staff, the North Vietnamese have moved six new regiments into the Laotian panhandle area to join 15,000 combat troops already there. Each regiment at full strength numbers about 1,500 men.

Although the enemy has yet to strike in force, Vogt said, "he has given every indication of his intent to fight."

Neither Vogt nor Laird spelled out how the allied forces would respond.

He added: "There seems to be an impatience on the part of a great many people to have an operation achieve total success in two weeks ...

"Nobody in his fondest dreams ever hoped we would achieve all the objectives in the first two weeks."

The general insisted the North Vietnamese had not stopped the South Vietnamese advance along highway 9, the key east-west highway into Laos where

Cucumber Contracts Available

Farmers of Hempstead County wishing to grow cucumbers may now sign their contracts and get their seed, this was announced by Calvin J. Caldwell, County Extension Agent.

Tom Wells, with Brown and Miller Pickling Company, Texarkana, has visited Hempstead County and made arrangements with Barry's Grocery and Market and Red River Feed and Seed Store to handle the seed and contracts again this year.

Roy Smith, Route 1, Hope, Arkansas, will also be working with the company and be handling contracts and seed. The Brown and Miller Pickling Company is offering growers an opportunity to plant hybrid seed if they wish. These seed may be obtained from Red River Feed and Seed at the rate of $6.50 per pound and must be paid for when received. The regular seed may be used and the price will be $2.00 per pound and may be paid for after harvest has started.

The prices for cucumbers during 1971 will be as follows: Grade No. 1A — $12.50 per cwt., Grade No. 1 — $8.50 per cwt., Grade No. 2 — $4.00 per cwt., large numbers of troops would be quickly brought into position by helicopters once the North Vietnamese response was determined.

The grading and packing shed located on the Spring Hill road will be in operation again this year.

Farmers are encouraged to have their soil sampled so that recommendations can be made for the proper amount of fertilizer and lime. Any further information concerning cucumber production may be obtained from the County Extension Office located in the Courthouse.

lead elements of Saigon's forces have been sitting for seven days about 17 miles from the border.

"The decision to pause at this particular point was made because of a desire to assess the enemy reaction at this time, where he did intend to attack," Vogt said.

Federal Land Bank Lowers Interest Rate

Sidney J. Phillips, Manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Texarkana announced a reduction of interest rate from 8.50 percent to 7.50 percent per annum. This reduction will be effective on all new loans closed on or after March 1.

Also, the 7.50 percent rate will apply automatically on April 1 to all borrowers having loans with 8.50 percent effective rate on the most current variable rate loan plan. Certain other borrowers on previous Variable Rate Plans will have an opportunity to take advantage of the new, lower rate, provided they apply for the rate reduction.

Phillips said, "This is the second rate reduction in five months and is a result of the continued trend to lower the cost of money obtained by the Federal Land Banks through the sale of their Bonds."

Phillips went on to say, "The lowest possible interest rate, coupled with our new Open-End Farm Loan Plan offered on a long term basis with a guaranteed line of credit, gives every opportunity to the progressive, expanding farmer in today's modern agriculture."

The Federal Land Bank Association of Texarkana serves 385 Land Bank loans outstanding, totaling $8,464,383 in ten counties, Miller, Hempstead, Clark, Pike, Little River, Howard, Sevier, Columbia, Lafayette and Nevada.

The Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, serving the Land Bank Associations, has approximately $660 million in loans outstanding to over 36,000 farmers in Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — "The First Nine Months Are the Hardest," an NBC special Wednesday night, was not the most subtle show of the season, but it had a theme—pregnancy—and the sketches and lyrics of its special music stuck to the comedy premise.

Dick Van Dyke played host and obstetrician during the hour while the joys and terrors of approaching parenthood were delineated by three couples who are married and are rather engaging professionals.

They were Ken Berry and Jackie Joseph, James Farentino and Michele Lee, and Sonny and Cher Bono. The program started with the official notice they were "infanticipating," a word somehow incorporated in a production number called "Ladies in Waiting."

It ended, of course, with the big event.

Every cliché of approaching motherhood was explored except the one involving pickles and ice cream. Sketches were built around the size of the doctor's fee, morning sickness, prenatal influences. There were production numbers about finding a name and the father's wait for word. The ladies waded about discussing their condition. No clinical detail was concealed.

It was merry, mildly ribald and generally uninspired. Earlier on ABC, Jacques Cousteau and the crew of the Calypso carried television audiences to the Galapagos Islands off Ecuador to inspect the marine iguana, or as Cousteau called it, the sea dragon.

These strange, rather small creatures—ugly but peaceful—have survived for millions of years. They bask in the subtropical sun on barren volcanic rock and forage for sea algae in the ocean. They have adapted to swimming and diving and are able to remain submerged for about an hour by using oxygen stored in their tissue.

The underwater photography was, as in all the "Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau" series, impressive in its beauty.

Cousteau had some especially interesting film of the sole family living on the island, in a house built among the iguanas. The head of the family has made house pets of them. Although iguanas starve themselves in captivity and the men of the Calypso were unable to persuade the reptiles to eat from their hands under the sea, this man summoned the creatures by calling them and they fed greedily from a dish he set out for them.

HAIR TODAY, NOT THERE TOMORROW

Dear Helen: Some of us guys have been banned from the local skating rink because our hair is "too long."

What really knocks me out is that my hair isn't that long. It is always clean and neat, like my clothes. That goes for most of us.

Can an owner get away with this? — ROGER

Dear Roger: An owner can make house rules, but if they are out of reason, he'll soon be out of business.

"Clean and neat" is necessary, but long hair in itself shouldn't get you banned. How about organizing a customer boycott? — H.

Dear Helen:

It was with disgust and horror several weeks ago that I read a newspaper article about "live" abortions. It seems that in New York (and probably elsewhere too) the "salting out" method is used to abort fetuses that are more advanced. Sometimes the saline solution injected does not kill the five-month baby. (Abortions are allowed in "liberalized" states at up to 24 weeks of pregnancy.) It is born alive, then allowed to die because it is so damaged it would never be normal. Could a girl ever get over that experience? This isn't the "easy" way!

I have always felt that abortions should be performed only to save a mother's life or sanity, or if the baby will be severely deformed. I speak as one who had an unwanted pregnancy. My son was born out of wedlock, but I thank God I had him. He has been adopted by my husband and is the joy of our lives. — A.B.

Dear A:

I, too, am repelled by abortion and feel that only in case of dire necessity should it be performed after the mother is into her fourth month of pregnancy. Although I've urged liberalized abortion laws, I pray for the day when prevention becomes the main solution, and safe birth control is made available to all who need or want it—especially to the poor.

More and more I'm learning from my correspondents (nurses as well as patients) that abortion is NOT always the easy way out. For some, it leaves guilt and traumas that take years to erase. (Suggested reading: LOOK MAGAZINE, February 9—"Why Are Nurses Shook Up Over Abortion?") — H.

Dear Helen: There's a teacher in our junior high who thinks he is the principal, but he's not. Every time we have a good idea to help our school, he tells us we can't do that. Sometimes our principal is on our side, until this teacher gets to him, and then everyone gangs up against us. If we try to petition for better lunches, for instance, this teacher says we will only cause trouble. If we want a school play or "fair" he downgrades it so much that all the other teachers agree it would be too much work. Just because we have one teacher with tired blood, does he have to spread it around and get everything we want nixed? — DISGUSTED STUDENTS

Dear Students: Seems to me you kids have a "freder blood" than he has, since you allow ONE man to swing the whole teaching staff against you. If your cause is right (and doesn't cost too much money) don't cave in so easily. Promote, campaign, persuade, and your enthusiasm will surely strike sparks. — H.

Longer Life by Year 2000 Is Predicted

By BRIAN SULLIVAN AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — By the year 2,000, the scientist said, it should be technically possible to add 20 to 40 useful years to an individual's period of middle age.

Dr. Leon R. Kass of the National Academy of Sciences said conservative estimates from recent research indicate aging may be a process that can be manipulated, perhaps by such measures as diet and drugs.

Working from animal studies, Kass said, scientists have suggested a very small decrease in the temperature of a human body could slow the rate of aging. Body processes slow down at lower temperatures.

But it is just such dramatic possibilities in current biomedical research that raise profound questions for society, said Kass, executive director of the National Academy's Committee on Life Sciences and Social Policy.

He spoke Monday to a seminar on science and public policy being held this week at the academy.

At first, Kass said, longevity probably will be obtained by an individual only at great expense.

"Who is likely to be able to buy it?" he asked. "Do conscience and prudence permit us to enlarge the gap between rich and poor, especially with respect to something as fundamental as life itself?"

Already, he continued, medical advances have produced some dehumanization of life, such as the increasing number of lonely old people kept alive by medical progress.

"We have learned how to increase their years," he said, "but we have not learned how to help them enjoy their days."

Such forthcoming possibilities as altering man's genetic makeup, producing an embryo in a test tube before implanting it in the mother, the progress toward the development of an artificial placenta, Kass said, raise great problems.

He said there should be some kind of institutional control of such science and technology.

Prince Visits Pitcairn Isle

GLENDAL, Calif. (P) — Britain's Prince Philip has paid a visit to remote Pitcairn Island, peopled mainly by descendants of the seamen who staged the mutiny on the Bounty.

Tom Christian, the island's radio officer, said by radio Tuesday the prince arrived in the royal yacht Britannia Sunday and had most of the 93 islanders aboard for a buffet dinner. He later visited ashore.

Christian keeps in touch with a Glendale church organization.

Philip was the first member of British royalty to visit the island, which is five miles square. The 10 mutineers arrived there 181 years ago.

Hasty Action in Herbicide Case Suggested

By G. C. THELEN Jr. Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret report by a White House advisory committee suggests President Nixon's former science aide and two federal departments acted hastily in restricting use of a herbicide linked to birth defects in animals.

Disclosure of the critical report coincides with Environmental Protection Agency proceedings to broaden curbs on the weed-killer, 2,4,5-T. The chemical already is banned for most home use and on food crops and for defoliation in South Vietnam.

Relying on tests done for the National Cancer Institute, the departments of agriculture and health, education and welfare have branded 2,4,5-T a health hazard because it caused birth defects in rats and mice.

The two departments subsequently curbed the herbicide under prompting by President Nixon's former science adviser, Dr. Lee A. DuBridge. The only uses now permitted are for weed and brush control on ranges, pastures, forests, rights-of-way and other nonagricultural land.

The secret report of the 10-scientist White House panel, obtained by The Associated Press, questions existing curbs on 2,4,5-T and the government's reliance on the NCI birth-defects studies. "To restrict or ban usage of chemicals on the basis of demonstration of teratogenicity (birth defects) at dose levels which far exceed actual or expected (human) exposures is unreasonable and could well deny usage of chemicals whose benefits far outweigh risks," the report said.

"A decision to restrict the use of 2,4,5-T should not be based on the isolated finding of toxicity but on the expected exposure following recommended use in relation to dose-response effects," it continued.

The scientists said that in the few cases in which 2,4,5-T residues have been found in food, the levels were "well below those which would result in significant toxicity for man."

Red Devils of Cale Have Good Season

Cale Red Devils advanced to the semi-finals of the Area 13 Senior Boys District, which was held at Taylor this year. Area 13 is composed of 22 teams from Hempstead, Nevada, Columbia, Miller, Lafayette, and Clark Counties.

On Tuesday night of the tourney the Red Devils met the McNeil Eagles and easily defeated them by a score of 66-47. This victory pitted the Cale boys against the big and powerful Bright Star team. At half-time the Red Devils had a lead of 6 points, which was cut to 2 points by the end of the third quarter. However, the last quarter Cale went to work and the final score was 65-53. Blake led the scoring for Cale with 22, followed by Allen with 12. Others scoring were Rhodes with 10, Jerry Williams with 8, Green and Yarbrough with 6 each and John Williams with 1.

The semi-finals on Friday night found Cale facing the Emerson Pirates. Emerson had a winning record coming into the tourney and had previously defeated the Cale boys. The first quarter found Cale on top by a score of 19-12, but by half-time the lead had been cut to 2, with the scoreboard showing 30-28. After the third quarter the Red Devils were still ahead by 1 point, 45-44. The final quarter was close all of the way with the lead changing hands frequently. With three seconds on the clock the Emerson Pirates were behind 1, when they shot and made one. The final score was 62-61 in favor of Emerson. Top scorer was Blake with 27, followed by John Williams and Green with 9 each. Rhodes and Allen both had 8 for the night. Emerson won the District by defeating Taylor 13 points.

Tommy Blake, a senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Blake of Route 1, Rosston, Arkansas was selected on the All-District Team. Tommy plans to attend college after graduation. Other seniors on the squad are as follows:

Leon Green, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Gill of Route 1, Rosston; and Jerry Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams of Route 3, Rosston.

The Cale team also received one of the two sportsmanship trophies awarded during the tourney.

The Red Devils end their season with a record of 27 wins and 6 losses. Over the past season they won first place in the Emmet Invitational Tournament and first place in the Nevada County Tournament. With only three seniors on the Red Devils squad they should have a winning season next year. Glyndon Franklin coaches the Red Devils.

Sisters Most Likely to Win Gold Medals

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP) — The Cochran sisters of Vermont, with strong performances in their World Cup specialty appear to be the major U.S. threats to win Gold Medals in alpine skiing events at the 1972 Winter Olympics.

Barbara Ann Cochran, a 20-year-old blonde from Richmond, Vt., won the women's slalom Wednesday as four days of World Cup racing began at Heavenly Valley. Her sister, Marilyn, 21, won the previous slalom, at Mt. Ste. Anne, Que., and lost her chance for victory Wednesday when she was disqualified.

The sisters' victories are the only ones by U.S. women so far this season in the Cup competition.

Barbara gave the U.S. women's team a spot in the top 10 of the overall standings. She increased her point total to 65, accumulating all the points in slalom competition, and moved from 12th to 9th place.

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — England and Scotland played to a 2-2 tie in an under-23 soccer international match Wednesday night.

Bucks Still Can't Claim to Be Best

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's a long way from the play-offs and Milwaukee hasn't won the title yet—but the Bucks can still claim they're the best in the National Basketball Association.

The Bucks, going from streak to streak all season, captured their 13th straight victory and 58th in 69 games this season with a 139-104 blasting of San Diego Wednesday night. Thus, with 13 games remaining in regular-season play, they assured themselves of the best record in the league.

New York's champion Knicks improved their second-best NBA record to 44-26 with a 126-105 thrashing of Cincinnati. In other games Boston bounced Los Angeles 116-96, Atlanta tripped Portland 118-107, San Francisco nipped Detroit 117-115 and Seattle ripped Cleveland 123-101.

In the American Basketball Association the New York Nets bombed Pittsburgh 134-108, Kentucky whipped Memphis 128-115, Indiana beat Texas 117-113, the Floridians edged Denver 112-110 and Carolina outlasted Virginia 144-137 in overtime.

San Diego stayed within striking distance, trailing only 62-53 at the half, before the Bucks went to work, pulling away by 16 points after three periods, then bombing in 40 points in the final quarter.

Elvin Hayes of the Rockets and Lew Alcindor of Milwaukee played to a virtual standoff with the Big E winning the scoring battle 23-20 and the Big A outrebounding Hayes 13-11. It was Bob Dandridge's 33 points that made the difference.

New York held a slim 80-79 lead late in the third period before Dave DeBusschere and Bill Bradley went to work with deadly outside shooting as the Knicks erupted for 39 fourth-quarter points. Walt Frazier topped the winners with 26 points and Bradley added 24 and DeBusschere 18 while Cincinnati's Flynn Robinson topped everyone with 29.

Boston held Los Angeles scoring star Jerry West to just one field goal and a total of 11 points while John Havlicek, Jo Jo White and Don Nelson teamed for 72 points as the Celtics buried the Lakers, topped by Wilt Chamberlain's 27 points.

Lou Hudson's 38 points and Pete Maravich's 28 plus a dazzling passing exhibition by "Pistol Pete" and Walt Hazzard enabled Atlanta to turn back the Trail Blazers, paced by Jim Barnett's 26.

Nate Thurmond hit a career-high 43 points for San Francisco but it was Jeff Mullins' field goal and free throw in the closing seconds that gave the Warriors their come-from-behind victory over Detroit. Dave Bing had 32 for the Pistons.

Seattle, trailing 20-14 in the first period, reeled off 13 straight points and never looked back as they handed the hapless Cavaliers their 59th loss against just a dozen victories. Dick Snyder led the Sonics with 24 points and Bobby Smith had 19 for Cleveland.

Girl Jockeys Ride at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Kim Sawyer, 18, and Paul Herber, 17, became the first female jockeys to ride competitively at Oaklawn Park here Wednesday.

Miss Herber was aboard Breaux's-Banjo in the fourth race and Miss Sawyer rode Hemmet Embers in the fifth. Both finished last.

Kim said she wanted to be considered as "one of the group." She said she feels just like any other jockey.

She expects to ride primarily for her mother, who is training seven horses at a farm near Oaklawn. Mrs. Sawyer began training horses in 1963 and switched to thoroughbreds a couple of years later.

Paula arrived in Hot Springs last week from New Orleans, where she has spent the last two months galloping horses. She is 5-foot-4, 110-pounds, has blonde hair and rides primarily for her father. Don Herber has four horses in training at Hot Springs.

She said she has little trouble keeping her weight down and eats "pretty much" what she wants.

Rose Had Off Year, Says Cincinnati

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pete Rose cut some fancy figures for Cincinnati's National League champions last season: 205 hits, 15 home runs, 52 runs batted in and a sixth straight .300-plus batting average.

But Rose's numbers don't seem to add up to a fat salary raise, according to the Reds' mathematics.

"Pete had an off year," Sheldon Bender, then club's personnel director, revealed Wednesday. "Hitting .316 is not what you would consider a good season for Pete Rose."

The hustling outfielder, who took NL batting titles in 1968 and 1969 with .335 and .348 marks, is asking for a two-year $250,000 contract. He made an estimated $105,000 last year.

"We don't feel that if 95 per cent of the club gets a raise, Pete Rose, the team captain, should go without one," said Hy Ulline who is representing Rose in salary negotiations.

Cleveland pitching ace Sam McDowell, bidding for a six figure contract after his first 20-victory season, conceded that his salary talks with the Indians broke down a week ago. His battle cry now is pay me or trade me.

"I like playing in Cleveland and I want to play for the Indians," the big left-hander said in a telephone interview from his Pittsburgh home, "but I would rather play somewhere else than not play at all."

The world champion Baltimore Orioles, meanwhile, brought their 24-game winners, Dave McNally and Mike Cuellar, into the fold for fat pay increases. McNally, 24-9 last season, received about $55,000 and Cuellar, 24-8, about $85,000.

Other signees were first baseman Donn Clendenon and outfielder Art Shamsky with the New York Mets; outfielder Jim Northrup with Detroit and pitcher Wilbur Wood and first baseman-outfielder Tom McCraw with the Chicago White Sox.

Shortstop Luis Aparicio, traded from the White Sox to Boston at the winter meetings, reported

Surging Nets Remain in a Wedge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
New York is running up the score in American Basketball Association play, but there's no Net gain in the Eastern Division standings today.

The Nets, led by Rick Barry, got an early jump on Pittsburgh Wednesday night, surged ahead by 42 points in the late stages and drubbed the Condors 134-108 for their sixth victory in seven games.

But the surging New York club remained wedged between second place Kentucky and fourth place Carolina in the East as the Colonels and Cougars each came from behind to win.

Carolina outlasted Virginia 144-137 in overtime behind the clutch shooting of Bob Verga and the Colonels put on a third quarter spurt to overtake Memphis 126-115.

The Nets are 3½ games behind Kentucky and 2½ games ahead of Carolina in the scramble for playoff spots.

Elsewhere, the Floridians nipped Denver 112-110 on Mack Calvin's buzzer shot and Indiana shaded Texas 117-113.

In the National Basketball Association, Boston topped Los Angeles 116-96, New York trimmed Cincinnati 125-105, Milwaukee crushed San Diego 139-104, Atlanta downed Portland 118-107, San Francisco edged Detroit 117-115 and Seattle whipped Cleveland 123-101.

Barry scored 35 points in 37 minutes, hitting for 23 in the first half as the Nets drew away. John Brisker topped the Condors with 21.

Verga tallied seven of his 29 points in overtime for the Cougars, who rallied in the fourth quarter to knot it 124-124 at the end of regulation play. Charlie Scott of Virginia was high man with 31 points.

Lou Dampier put in 14 points in the third quarter as Kentucky outscored the Pros 37-11 in one stretch to overcome a six-point halftime deficit. Dampier finished with 32 points. Steve Jones had 23 for Memphis.

Calvin's 18-foot jump shot beat the clock and the Rockets at Jacksonville, Fla. He wound up with 28 points, two more than teammate Larry Jones. Larry Cannon paced Denver with 25.

Four free throws by little Bill Keller in the final nine seconds sealed Indiana's victory over the Chaparrals. Mel Daniels led the Pacers' attack with 27 points. Gene Moore and Joe Hamilton had 29 and 28, respectively, for Texas.

to camp with high hopes of another big year battling ahead of Carl Yastrzemski. The 36-year-old bantam hit a career-high .313 in 1970.

Outfielder Matty Alou, who went from Pittsburgh to St. Louis in a recent trade, was another camp arrival. Alou, who dipped from .331 two years ago to .297 last season, said he'll switch from a 38-ounce bat to one four ounces lighter.

Los Angeles newcomer Rich Allen, acquired from St. Louis in still another trade, tangled with the Dodgers' sophisticated new pitching machine and said: "Those things throw better curve balls than most pitchers."

Then he stepped back into the cage and sprayed line drives to all fields, proving that at least one hitter is ahead of the pitchers—mechanical marvels or otherwise.

Duquesne, Louisville Are Upset

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Maybe it was the altitude that upset Duquesne and Louisville.

But South Carolina and LaSalle didn't seem to mind it. The Dukes, with a height advantage on the floor as well as in The Associated Press college basketball rankings—eight against unrated Boston College—couldn't keep the Eagles from flying away to a 67-52 victory Wednesday night.

And Louisville, holding down the 15th spot in the poll, was unable to hold down Cincinnati's unlisted Bearcats, who squeezed out a 79-78 triumph.

But seventh-ranked South Carolina had little trouble shattering Wake Forest's zone defense to destroy the Deacons 84-64 and No. 14 LaSalle clamped the lid on American University to win 62-54.

In other major action, Miami of Ohio overpowered Xavier of Ohio 86-72, Duke held off North Carolina State 82-78, St. Bonaventure crushed St. Francis, N.Y., 105-65 and Toledo upset Western Michigan 81-68.

Boston College, countering Duquesne's height advantage by keeping the middle clear, rode backcourt ace Jimmy O'Brien's 18 first-half points to a 30-19 intermission lead, then kept the Dukes from getting closer than eight points to snap their 15-game victory skein. O'Brien finished with 22 points for scoring honors.

Sophomore Greg Jursisin scored Cincinnati's decisive point on a free throw with 17 seconds to play while Steve Wenderfer supplied the punch with 29 points and 19 rebounds to cut the Cards.

South Carolina retired John Roche's No. 11 uniform and Wake Forest responded by overplaying the Gamecocks' star, who turned playmaker to help his teammates roll up a 46-37 halftime lead on the outside shooting of Rick Aydtlett and Bob Carver.

The SC triumph, led by Tom Owens' 25 points, and 18 rebounds, enabled the Gamecocks to finish their season at home undefeated with an 11-0 mark. They're 18-4 over-all.

LaSalle was without scoring leader Ken Durrett, sidelined with a knee injury, so Bobby Fields took over and hit a game-high 22 points.

The Explorers held the ball and rolled up 11 free throws and a pair of field goals in the final 12 minutes of play to clip the Eagles' wings.

Thursday, February 25, 1971

Miami's Jerry Sears hit 17 of his 26 points and Larry Garloch scored 20 as the Redskins broke a 59-59 tie midway in the second half to roll to their 10th straight triumph and the Mid-America Conference title. Jerry Helmers had 26 for Xavier.

Duke's Blue Devils stormed to a 41-28 halftime lead and held a comfortable margin until the Wolpack clawed back within three points before time ran out. Rick Katherman topped the winners with 21.

St. Francis was no match for the Bonnies, who raced to a 52-27 lead in the opening 20 minutes and kept up their unrelenting attack the rest of the way. Mike McDermott's 26 points topped the Terriers but St. Bonaventure countered with 23 points by Carl Jackson and 22 by Greg Gary.

Western Michigan's setback gave Miami the Mid-America title and it was the 24 points by Toledo's Tom Kozelco and 18 by Bill Chapman that busted the Broncos. Jim Patterson had 23 for the losers.

In other games, Air Force rode Ron Weillert's 20 points to a 74-70 come-from-behind victory over Regis, Wil Robinson scored a career-high 45 points to lift West Virginia from a 48-41 deficit to a 101-89 romp over Penn State, Stan Grayson's career-high 35 points and 22 rebounds enabled Holy Cross to pummel Georgetown 109-72, Davidson bombarded VMI early to cruise past the Keydets 109-64 and Missouri, whose Big Eight game was delayed twice by the snowstorm in the Midwest, used Greg Flaker's eight free throws to eke out a 69

Majestic Queen, with Stanley Spencer aboard, returned $8.20 and $4.80 and Kentucky Flipper, ridden by J. D. Santage, finished third to pay $5.60.

Blonde Lady, Misty Joy and Cornish Sister raced for the lead coming out of the gate, but Blonde Lady has pulled to a three-length lead by the time the field had reached the quarter pole.

Rounding the turn into the stretch, Blonde Lady had increased the lead to four lengths and won easily over the seven other 3-year-olds.

Easy Wins for U.S. Pair in Tennis Match

WINCHESTER, Mass. (AP) — Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals, the top two American seeds, started off with easy victories in Wednesday's opening matches of the $12,500 National Women's Indoor Tennis Championships.

Now Francoise Durr of France and Ann Jones of England, the 1-2 foreign seeds, get their first tests. Miss Durr is matched today with Cecilia Martinez, and Miss Jones with Denise Carter.

Another singles match on today's program pits Julie Heldman against Kristy Pigeon, completing the opening round of play in the five-day tournament which continues through Sunday at the Indoor Lawn Tennis Center.

Mrs. King, the nation's No. 1 ranked player and second in the world took only 34 minutes to dispose of 15-year-old Laurie Tenney 6-1, 6-2 in her first round match Wednesday night.

Miss Casals, ranked No. 2 in the nation, breezed past Valerie Ziegenfuss by the same 6-1, 6-2 score.

In other first round matches Judy Tegart-Dalton of Australia defeated Esme Emanuel of South Africa, 6-3, 6-2, Kerry Melville of Australia ousted Andrea Voikos of Pawtucket, R.I., 6-3, 6-2; and Peaches Barkowicz of Hamtramck, Mich., eliminated Mary Ann Curtis of St. Louis 6-1, 7-5.

Carr Unlikely to Set Any New Marks

NEW YORK (AP) — Notre Dame's Austin Carr appears destined to be a crown prince without a crown in college basketball's all-time scoring parade.

Carr pumped in 122 points in three games last week to become the second-highest scorer in major college history. But the Irish backcourt flash likely will wind up his three-year stint without capturing a single-season point title.

Mississippi's Johnny Neumann remains firmly entrenched atop the scoring list with 906 points in 22 games. Carr, runner-up to all-time point champ Pete Maravich of Louisiana State a year ago, is second again with 821 in 22 starts.

The Notre Dame star passed Oscar Robertson last week to grab the No. 2 spot behind Maravich in the career standings.

Artis Gilmore, Jacksonville's 7-foot-2 pivotman, held his rebounding lead with 23 percentage; North Carolina's Dennis Wayne continued to set the pace in field goal accuracy with a .627 percentage and Southern Illinois' Greg Starnick remained No. 1 in free throw percentage with a spectacular .930 mark, according to weekly NCAA figures released today.

Top Seeded Tennis Stars in 3rd Round

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Top seeded tennis players from 18 different countries enter the third round matches today of the Macon International Tennis Tournament here.

One top-seeded player was forced to drop out Wednesday. Jim McManus, the No. 3-seeded American, twisted an ankle Tuesday during a doubles match and was unable to play. By default the match went to Jan Kukal of Czechoslovakia. Eight singles and eight doubles were scheduled for today, featuring every seeded player except McManus.

New York brushed the monkeys ... er ... Flyers off their backs and kept the National Hockey League's West Division playoff scramble thoroughly scrambled.

The Rangers ended a two-year winless streak that had stretched over 10 games against Philadelphia Wednesday night with a convincing 4-2 victory that tumbled the Flyers to fourth place in the West Division.

Elsewhere, Minnesota took over third place in the West with a 5-1 decision over Los Angeles, St. Louis rallied for a 5-5 tie against Pittsburgh and Montreal upended California 5-2.

The Rangers had not beaten Philadelphia at all since January, 1969 and hadn't handled the Flyers at New York since Oct. 16, 1968. Over the 10-game stretch, the Flyers had beaten New York twice and managed eight ties.

It was a string that didn't sit well with the Rangers and they used a Flyer tactic—the quick goal—to reverse it. Bob Nevin's unassisted goal gave the Rangers a quick lead in the opening period and forced the Flyers to play catchup hockey—something that they had forced the Rangers to do in nine of the last 11 games between the two teams.

Vic Hadfield's first goal in 11 games made it 2-0 in the second period and then Ted Irvine and Rod Gilbert connected for New York and Andre Lacroix and Guy Gendron for the Flyers in the final 20 minutes.

The victory clinched a tie for a playoff berth in the East Division for the Rangers, who will make it into the Stanley Cup showdown for a little stretch season as soon as they win or tie another game or Detroit loses one.

The situation is considerably different for the Flyers, who are locked in a three-way struggle with Minnesota and Pittsburgh in the West.

The Flyers lost ground to both teams although it could have been worse if St. Louis had not rallied with a pair of late goals by Gary Sabourin and Garry Unger to tie Pittsburgh.

Unger's second of the night earned the deadlock for the Blues and left Pittsburgh in fifth place in the West with 53 points —one less than Philadelphia and two less than Minnesota. The Flyers have played one less game than the other two teams.

Defensesman Carl Brewer's first goal since joining the Blues had tied the score at 3-3 early in the third period against the Penguins.

Pittsburgh seized the lead on goals by Jean Pronovost and Nick Harbaruk but the Blues came back to tie it again.

Minnesota, meanwhile, got two goals apiece from Gordon Labossiere and Bill Goldworthy to whip Los Angeles and jump one point up on the Flyers.

Ted Hampson, acquired in a trade from California only Tuesday, assisted on both goals by Goldworthy and Doug Mohns, picked up from Chicago the same day, had the North Stars' other goal.

Jean Beliveau produced a pair of first-period power play goals in triggering Montreal past California. Phil Roberto, Rejean Houle and Pete Mahovich collected the other Canadians' goals while Bert Marshall and Tommy Williams scored for the Golden Seals.

Declares Hunt Tennis Deals Are Illegal

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A United States Lawn Tennis Association official says Lamar Hunt's Dallas-based World Championship Tennis, Inc. is signing illegal contracts with tennis promoters using "cloak-and-dagger tactics."

Lamar Hunt says hogwash. Bill Riordan, player coordinator for the USLTA, earlier this week attacked Hunt and the WCT saying, "Emissaries of Lamar Hunt are going around holding clandestine meetings, signing cloak-and-dagger contracts that are in absolute conflict with rules of the International Lawn Tennis Federation."

"I thought what he said was way out of line," Hunt said Wednesday at a news conference promoting one of WCT's 20 World Championship of Tennis tournaments. "In the first place, World Championship Tennis is not under the jurisdiction of the ILTF."

Hunt, also owner of the Kansas City Chiefs football team, has 32 of the world's top tennis players. WCT guarantees certain players will compete in their tournaments.

WCT public relations director Ron Bookman said, "We very definitely are signing contracts with promoters, but there's nothing illegal about it. The tournaments want the best players, the promoters come to us to provide the players and we do so on a guarantee basis. We have no reason to be secret or have cloak-and-dagger methods."

Hunt said Riordan could be upset because WCT did not provide the players he wanted for a tournament Riordan was promoting in Salisbury, Md.

"He completely misrepresented our negotiations with him," Hunt said. "We're not interested in hurting the tournament at Salisbury. We want it to succeed. If we hurt tennis, we hurt World Championship Tennis, Inc."

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor Gig Young has failed to persuade Superior Court that a girl born in 1964 to his fourth wife, Elaine, was sired by another man.

Young, 52, brought the action last fall when the former Mrs. Young sought additional support money for the child. He contended that he underwent surgery in 1938 which made him incapable of becoming a father.

Ruling against Young, the judge noted Wednesday that the actor had agreed to child support when the divorce was granted in 1966. Young and the former Elaine Garner Whitman were married in 1963

Offers U.S. Paid Public Service Jobs

By G. C. THELEN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coming full circle under pressure from congressional Democrats, President Nixon is advocating a plan for federally paid public-service jobs more costly than one he vetoed last December.

Announcement of the administration's $800-million-a-year program for 200,000 jobs in state and local government came as five governors and a 12-member caucus of black representatives told congressional committees emergency action is necessary to fight unemployment.

The President's job plan, however, was billed as an answer to criticism that the work and training requirements of his family-assistance welfare-reform measure are meaningless without adequate employment opportunities.

Broader job plans of Sens. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and various house members now being considered would provide up to $2 billion for public-service jobs not necessarily tied to welfare.

Three months ago the President vetoed a $200-million public-service program. He said "dead-end jobs in the public sector" and "WPA jobs are not the answer for the men and women who have them."

One administration source explained the turnaround: "The time is obviously ripe for such a program and Congress is going to pass one anyway. It also strengthens our argument for family assistance."

The public service jobs would go to employable welfare recipients "for whom no other work or training is available," John G. Veneman, undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, told the House Ways and Means Committee Wednesday.

The idea, he said, is to fill new needs, such as construction and staffing of day-care centers, rather than augment such customary government services as garbage collection.

The jobs would pay a top of $1.20 an hour. The federal government would supply the recipient's entire wage for the first year, but only 75 per cent in the second and 50 per cent in succeeding years to keep the jobs temporary, Veneman said.

"This provision is consistent with our repeated assertion that welfare should not become a way of life," the undersecretary said.

He said the net federal cost of the $800-million-a-year program would be only $495 million because of resulting reduction in welfare payments.

Americans Out in Figure Skating

LYON, France (AP) — Ondrej Nepela of Czechoslovakia and France's Patrick Pera led the field for tonight's final of the men's World Figure Skating Championships almost equal on points scores, but with Nepela tipped to win the world crown.

Pera, who missed the recent European championships because of a foot injury, conceded he had "more chance of finishing second than first" because Nepela was placed first by six of the nine judges in the earlier compulsory figure contest.

Nepela was starting tonight with 1,150.5 points and 13 place points against 1,149.7 and 15 for Pera.

The best placed American was John Petkovich of Great Falls, Mont., fifth.

The United States got its first medal Wednesday night when Jo Jo Starbuck and Ken Shelley of Downey, Calif., took the bronze medal in the pairs skating.

Irina Rodnina and Sergei Ulanov of Russia, the defending champions, captured the title, with Ludmila Smirnova and Andrei Surailkin of Russia second.

Legislator Denounces U.S. Spying

By LEE BYRD

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas state legislator told Congress today he has lost faith in America, and his wife her health, because the military spied upon him over the past decade.

"I can remember thinking of Uncle Sam as part of the family," said Curtis M. Graves. "But now I think of repression and surveillance and miscarriages of justice ..."

In testimony prepared for the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights, headed by Sam Ervin, D-N.C., Graves recounted he recently learned from a former agent of the 112th Military Intelligence Group that he was a snooping target.

Graves said Walter Birdwell of Houston advised him "Army Intelligence has had me under surveillance since about 1960," and maintained extensive records on him in a "subversive file."

Birdwell also told him, said Graves, others in the 112th's Houston file included Texas State Sen. Barbara Jordan, boxer Muhammad Ali, attorneys Ben Levy, James Hippard and Will Gray, members of the Ku Klux Klan and a number of anti-war activists.

Birdwell reported seeing "a card file on every member of the Unitarian Church in San Antonio," Graves said, and records on Black Muslims included such personal matters as surgical histories.

As for his own case, Graves said he apparently was marked for surveillance while participating in 1960 sit-ins at Houston, aimed at desegregation of public accommodations.

Even so, he said, it was six years before he was first tipped by a high official in the Catholic church in Houston.

Thereafter, he said, it became obvious his telephone was tapped, and crudely. Sometimes after making a call "I could not get another dial tone ... for several minutes."

After his 1966 election to the state legislature, said Graves, "I noticed several times too many microphones were on platforms where I was speaking."

In one such case in 1969, he said, the unaccountable microphone had a cord running under the wall to an adjoining room, but "we couldn't get to the other side."

Graves said he suspected the monitoring was conducted by political enemies or perhaps the police until he heard from Birdwell.

"I understand the secretary of defense said that civilians will maintain the surveillance of subversives," said Graves. "My gut reaction is that Secretary

Governors Told to Flex Muscles

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican governors of the two most populous states have urged colleagues to use some political muscle back home in a quest for new federal financial help. California's Ronald Reagan suggesting "we can drop a little bomb" on Congress.

Challenging Democratic skeptics at the National Governors' Conference, Reagan and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said the governors can win enactment in this Congress of the $5-billion program President Nixon has proposed to send unfettered federal aid to states and cities.

Rockefeller said if Congress does not act by summertime, financial woes of cities will worsen, and pressure will mount on big-city congressmen to vote for federal financial relief.

But Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana, a Democrat, said he sees little chance for approval of unrestricted revenue sharing although he isn't opposed to the idea.

Meanwhile, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., planned to introduce an amendment today to double Nixon's revenue-sharing program to $10 billion and start it two months earlier, on July 1.

Thursday, February 25, 1971

The amendment, he said, also would double to 2.6 per cent of the income tax base the money earmarked for revenue sharing but still would satisfy "some-what less than one-half the additional burdens being placed on state and local governments this year."

Republican Govs. Richard Ogilvie of Illinois and Daniel J. Evans of Washington said they were concerned news reports were creating the impression of division among the governors on revenue sharing.

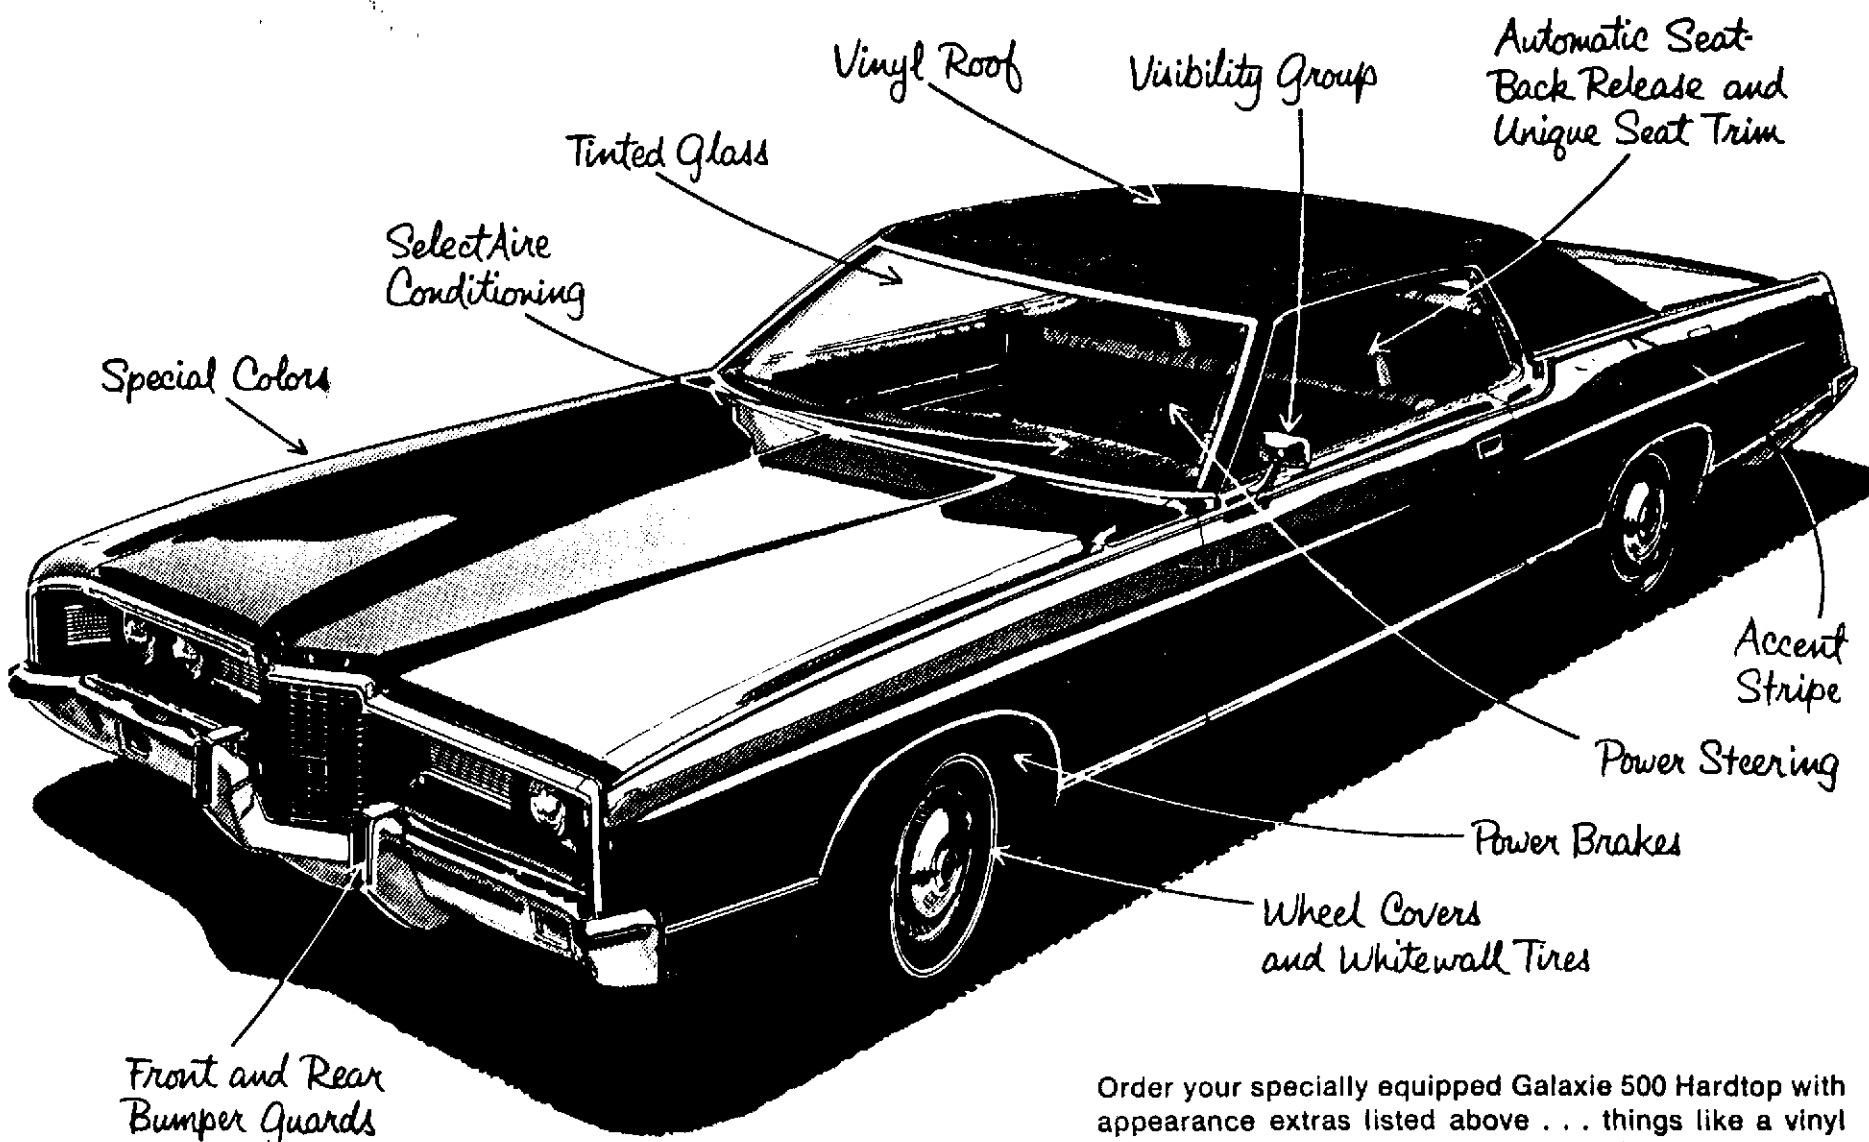

So Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri, the chairman, asked any governor who differs with the conference declaration of support for the program to raise his hand.

Nobody did.

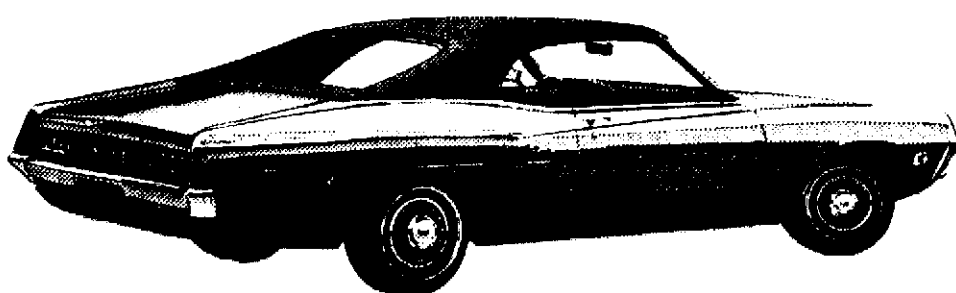

The governors found evidence of congressional opposition when they went to Capitol Hill for conferences with committees and a lobbying effort for the aid they seek. Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. John Byrnes of Wisconsin, ranking GOP member, did not budge in their opposition to revenue sharing.

"If we're going to suggest the federal government administer the welfare program in our states," Reagan said, "then I must say we're courting disaster, because we're looking to the same people who created this monster."

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Epilepsy Despite Normal Brain Scan

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My brain scan, EEG (electroencephalogram or brain wave) and pneumoencephalogram all turned out O.K. My doctors tell me I have epilepsy. How is this possible?

Dear Reader—It is. The common form of epilepsy is diagnosed on the basis of history of the seizures and surrounding events. The seizure is really caused by an electrical storm in the brain. The normal brain activity is disrupted and confused signals are sent out all over the body. The nerve impulses stimulate the muscles to contract, causing convulsions.

In some cases the brain puts out high voltage signals that are typical of a person who has seizures. The EEG is very helpful in spotting these cases. However, in as many as 25 per cent of the people with epilepsy the brain waves may be entirely normal between attacks. This is why EEGs are often repeated and additional procedures added to the test to try to evoke the abnormal electrical activity of the brain. Clearly, you must be one of the 25 per cent with a normal wave pattern.

A brain scan is a test using radioisotopes. By counting the density of radioactivity over the brain, a map of activity is formed. The doctor is looking for an abnormal area where the density of the count is changed. In this way he might be able to spot a tumor or mass of any type in the brain which could be a cause for the epilepsy. Obviously, in your case the test didn't suggest that you have a tumor.

A pneumoencephalogram is a test performed by injecting a gas to outline the anatomy of the brain. This test is used, too, in a search for a brain tumor or other abnormality in the structure of the brain. Again, you had no evidence of this.

The end result is that some rather sophisticated tests failed to show any structural damage to your brain or evidence of a brain tumor and your brain wave is fairly typical of about one in four patients who have epilepsy.

Now my comments do not mean you have epilepsy. Obviously, your doctor has

Officers Are Blamed in Spying Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Accounts of massive military spying on civilians were amplified before Congress today and Rep. Abner Mikva, a reported target himself, denounced the officers responsible as "the true subversives of our society."

Former Army intelligence staffers Ralph Stein, John O'Brien and Christopher H. Pyle testified, in considerable length and detail, that the military drastically exceeded its claim of limiting domestic surveillance to possible insurrection situations.

Among dozens of other examples given Sen. Sam Ervin's constitutional rights subcommittee, the three men said agents infiltrated scores of peaceful antiwar gatherings, monitored the 1968 Republican and Democratic national conventions, and filed running reports on the funeral of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

O'Brien's remarks included the widely publicized charge that his former unit, the 113th Military Intelligence Group in Illinois, had spied upon a number of public officials, including Mikva.

Mikva, following O'Brien to the witness stand, declared his first reaction had been one of "shock and outrage."

"In time," added the Democrat in a prepared statement, "these feelings gave way to a deeper sadness over the unavoidable message this brought as to the kind of society we have become."

Mikva urged making it a crime for any military personnel to engage in any snooping on civilians. And he called for "the removal of those responsible" for such activity in the past, despite new Pentagon assurances that abuses will not be repeated. "Those military officials who would arrogate to themselves the duty to watch peaceful civilians' political activities are the true subversives in our society," said Mikva.

"If allowed to continue, they will end up creating a climate of fear and suspicion in this country the likes of which would make Joseph McCarthy look like a civil libertarian."

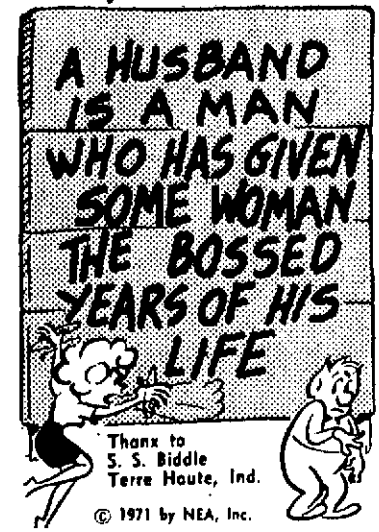

Already, said Mikva, much damage has been done.

Stein testified he ran a "left wing desk" for the Counterintelligence Analysis Branch, with offices near Washington, and became thoroughly convinced before his late 1968 discharge that domestic snooping is "an activity the military should not be undertaking in the first place."

Both he and Pyle said that, even with the closing down of the Army's central data bank on civilians at Ft. Holabird, Md., there were several other military computer and record-keeping centers with such information, including a 100,000-frame microfilm library at Stein's former office.

Junk Is Worth 'Gold'

By MR. FIX

Anyone can put together a good, basic assortment of tools. It isn't the tools that mark the good home repair man—it's the odds and ends of material that are the gauge of his experience.

Just as the woman of the house learns to hang on to buttons, pins and odds and ends of cloth, so does the man of the house learn to squirrel away an assortment of junk into which he delves during a crisis.

The garden hose that is no longer worth mending, for example. Don't throw it away. When you bind young trees to stakes driven in the ground slipping wire through a piece of hose will keep it from cutting through the tree. Slip a piece of hose over the narrow tip of a hose nozzle when you wash the car and you won't scratch the paint if you get too close.

Slit a length of hose and nail it to the bottom of an overhead garage door. It will absorb the shock when the door hits the cement and will serve as makeshift but perfectly adequate weatherstripping.

And what about wire? Next time you snip a piece of wire that was banded around a carton or bundle, coil it carefully and put it away. After you have finished a housewiring job, save the odds and ends of wire. You will find wire handy for mending and tastering. If there is to be a strain on it, use steel rather than copper wire. You will find wire useful in the garden. Electric wire with insulation is great for tying up plants. So are the paper-covered wires that keep bread bags closed.

Are there a few bricks around the yard? Don't toss them in the rubbish. Place a couple in the trunk of your car. They're handy for block ing wheels while you change a tire. Set garbage cans up on bricks to keep them from standing on moist ground and rusting.

If you are lucky enough to have acquired something that came in burlap bags, hang on to the bags. Use them in the garden to fill with leaves, debris or even top soil. Cut them into strips and bind the trunks of young trees to protect them from cold weather and the teeth of small animals.

Old bedsprings and sheets can double as tarpaulins for such jobs as piling on leaves to be gathered and hauled away. An old bedspring or a large sheet of cardboard can substitute for a tarp when you dig a hole and you want to pile the dirt on something so that it doesn't ruin the grass. Eventually, you will want to acquire a good tarp. Has a tree been cut down in your yard or nearby? Get

Trunk Slayer to Be Freed

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Winnie Ruth Judd, who narrowly escaped execution for a trunk murder committed in 1931, will be freed from prison if Gov. Jack Williams accepts a recommendation by the state Board of Pardons and Paroles.

By a 2-1 vote, the board recommended Tuesday that her life sentence be commuted to the time already served.

Mrs. Judd, now 65, was found insane and sent to a state hospital only three days before her scheduled execution. She had been sentenced for the murder of one of two women whose bodies were found in a trunk at a Los Angeles railroad station.

She escaped seven times and managed to stay at large seven years after fleeing in 1962. Found in California, she was declared legally sane and placed in prison.

Doesn't Think Arbitration Will Work

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Compulsory arbitration is from time to time advocated as an alternative to strikes, but no less than the head of the American Arbitration Association believes such suggestions are unworkable.

"Anybody who tries to sell the notion is selling snakeoil," says Donald Straus, president of AAA, a nonprofit organization that seeks to develop voluntary arbitration as a peaceful, effective technique for settling disputes.

"Compulsory arbitration hasn't worked in other countries and I don't think it will here," Straus adds. There is, he feels, "no absolute safety to the public against strikes." But voluntary arbitration at least offers an alternative.

To be fully effective, he and others in AAA feel, arbitration must be voluntarily entered and its decisions freely accepted. Introduce compulsion and one side becomes a loser, which violates the spirit of the procedure.

The voluntary kind is getting renewed attention as a means of breaking deadlocks in negotiations. By prior agreement, parties would submit their differences to an impartial arbitrator if it became clear they could not agree.

The parties cannot be forced into arbitration, they must arrive at the decision themselves. Usually when each side feels it has more to lose than to gain by a strike, it becomes more amenable to the idea.

However, one side generally is more powerful and wishes to avoid arbitration. And the weaker side cannot submit differences to the arbitrator without the agreement of its adversary.

Seldom is a balance of power found, and so the arbitration industry is, as Straus puts it, "a fashion industry." It has had periods of popularity, such as following World War II, and has enjoyed some usage in certain industries.

Now, many people feel, the consequences of strikes are becoming so damaging to both sides, and to the public, that the atmosphere for arbitration may be improving.

Even George Meany, AFL-CIO president, concedes, "We're getting to the point where a strike doesn't make sense in many situations." Strikes, he said, sometimes don't settle a thing but voluntary arbitration, he suggested, might.

And so the AAA is studying the possibilities, aided by representatives of labor and management.

Straus already reports some progress but avoids overt enthusiasm.

Voluntary arbitration is being used with some success in dealing with teacher and government employee issues, but Straus says he knows of no instance where it is being used in private enterprise.

He believes that relatively few companies would be unwilling to arbitrate. But, with unions exerting power effectively, there might be more reluctance on their part.

Factors are at work that might change that situation. Unions are questioning the benefits of strikes. The administration is distressed. And the public may have swallowed all the propaganda it can.

God gives every bird its seed, but he does not throw it into the nest. — Josiah G. Holland, author

French Test New Rockets for Sale

By RODNEY ANGOVE
Associated Press Writer
LANDES TEST STATION, France (AP) — With a flash of white, an eight-foot rocket popped out of a plastic tube mounted on a tank and curved gradually out to sea toward a scarcely visible target plane.

A hundred foreign military attaches, defense ministry officials and journalists watched from a windswept sand dune. The French officials held their breath, because riding on that slender, 139-pound tube of fuel, electronic gear and explosives was one of France's hopes of enlarging the market for its rocket weapons.

The test Monday was the first in public of the Roland SAM, an antiaircraft missile which SNIA, the French national aerospace company, developed in 50-50 cooperation with West Germany's Messerschmitt-Bölkow-Blohm.

Last year SNIA sold 322,690 rockets to 35 countries. While this accounted for less than 10 per cent of the total $920 million worth of aerospace exports last year, it still kept thousands employed.

Now France is bringing out a second generation of rockets ranging from the 24-pound Milan, with which a lone soldier should be able to knock off a tank a mile and a quarter away, to the tank-mounted Pluton, designed to wipe out an army camp 75 miles away with a nuclear warhead.

The new Exocet is fired from a patrol boat, and SNIA says it will sink cruisers 20 miles away — far over the horizon. The rocket zips along just over the waves, making it extremely difficult to counter.

The Roland was designed to protect tank columns from air attack. Its tank mount is equipped with radar to pick up approaching planes and identify them as friend or foe. Then, to reduce the cost, a gunner takes over and aims by sight. The company says the effective range is four miles.

The Roland hit the target, but the warhead didn't go off. A second shot exploded prematurely. The prospective buyers shrugged. The next demonstration was a perfect firing of a Milan through a paper target 800 yards away. But a couple of flukes are negligible when you're shopping for a weapons system, one foreigner said.

"First you define your particular needs," he explained. "Then you choose systems according to how they complement or supplement each other, and according to your money. We take a hard look at everything. We have computer run after computer run before deciding."

Low price and simplicity were designed into the Roland, said officials of SNIA and MBB. A firing station might cost $1.35 million to $1.44 million.

Wants Action, No Politics in Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has told the nation's governors he is looking for action, not a political issue, with his proposal that Washington send $5 billion in federal revenue back to financially pressed state and local governments.

He went in person and sent Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and two top lieutenants Tuesday to urge the governors to help sell revenue sharing and Cabinet reorganization measures in Congress.

In a private appearance before the midwinter governor's conference, Nixon was quoted as saying his proposals represented "the right program at the right time."

Nixon was said to have emphasized that he wanted the program, not a political talking point. Twenty-nine of the governors are Democrats, 21 are Republicans.

And some of them remained skeptical. Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan, a Democrat, said Nixon will blame a Democratic Congress if revenue sharing is rejected.

Railpax May Be Improvement for Passengers

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A passenger may not become king of the railroad if the Railpax revolution succeeds, but at least he may be treated more like a prince than a commoner with baggage.

Railpax aims to put profit back in intercity train-travel empires which recently have been ruled by loss. And image makers will try to make trains competitive with other modes of transportation.

"It'll succeed," said one of the professionals working on the strategy, "depending quite simply on how well we're able to give the rider a good, clean, safe and happy ride."

But success will cost millions, take years, "and first we've got to counter criticism, doubt and rumor, and win back the lost customer's faith by offering to make him feel we really want him and can prove it by the way we do our job," he added.

Preparing for May Day, the May 1 takeover of virtually all the nation's city-linking rail passenger business that the railroads don't want, the incorporators of the National Railroad Passenger Corp.—Railpax—profess enthusiasm for the project.

"It's a very hot torch that's been passed to us, though," said former Rep. Catherine May Bedell of Washington state, the only woman on the eight-member board of incorporators appointed by President Nixon and confirmed by the Senate last December.

They'll serve also as a board of directors to put the organization in shape by May 1.

Once formed, the corporation will pick up seven additional members—four elected by holders of preferred stock and three elected by railroads that are common-stock holders.

Although a totally new group of directors could be picked by the President and approved by the Senate, it is generally expected the government will go along with most or all of these persons who now are serving as incorporators.

Mrs. Bedell, chairman David W. Kendall, former special counsel to President Eisenhower; retired Gen. Frank S. Benson Jr., former chairman of the Pentagon's Joint Logistics Review Board; John J. Gilhooly, former New York City Transit Authority commissioner; Charles Luna, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; Arthur D. Lewis, former president of Eastern Airlines, and Chicago lawyer David E. Bradshaw.

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe, who gave the Railpax panel his basic rail passenger system report listing 21 pairs of major cities between which service must be provided after May 1, is expected to become a director replacing his deputy undersecretary, John P. Olsson.

The law creating Railpax suggests the corporation use "innovative operating and marketing concepts so as to fully develop the potential of modern rail service in meeting the nation's intercity passenger transportation requirements."

WHAT, NO SCOTCH? Sign along Interstate 44 is misleading; tank merely holds water supply for 779 residents of Bourbon, Mo., 60 miles west of St. Louis.

Kendall, in briefings to congressmen and their staffs, said Volpe "completed a very difficult task and has handed us a truly national basic system, fashioned in such a way that the corporation will have flexibility in expanding service as rapidly as conditions permit."

Before May, Kendall said, the Railpax panel must organize a $200 million public service corporation, find top management talent, decide on the routes to use, determine what's available in the way of equipment, decide "the best ways to turn around the drastic downturn in rail passengers," and negotiate contracts.

These contracts will be with "up to 22 railroads that are now running passenger trains and losing $200 million a year," he said.

And the Railpax board's task extends to such matters as solving ticket, reservation and passenger terminal matters.

Kendall said the criteria for route selection will largely follow Volpe's guidelines: Demand, cost, population, profitability, corporate flexibility and capital improvement requirements.

The availability of other forms of transit will be taken into consideration, he added, and the system will be expanded "if and when this is possible."

The corporation's funds come from an initial federal grant of $40 million and guaranteed loan capability of up to $300 million, from payments by railroads that join, and from preferred stock sold to the public.

Railpax will manage the network and operate the trains under contracts with the railroads. The corporation must run the basic system trains until July 1, 1973. After that, Railpax may ask for Interstate Commerce Commission permission to drop unneeded or unprofitable service.

The system can be expanded

Committee Goes TV in a Big Way

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee, traditionally most secretive of Congress' law-shaping panels, has gone public in a blaze of TV lights.

Reaction to Wednesday's 2½-hour session, with members swapping witticisms and philosophy with administration fiscal chiefs as the cameras whirled and the hot floods beat down, was mixed.

Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., was heard to remark as he left a bit early, "If they televise a few more of these hearings, the revolution will come real fast."

The committee, which had never admitted public or press to its sessions—with one possible exception, someone thought, about 13 years ago—borrowed a handsome hearing room from the Government Operations Committee.

The administration part of the cast contributed some eye-catching props. One three-color chart displayed by Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers looked at first glance like an aerial photograph of a busy cloverleaf.

Ruddy, grey-haired Treasury Secretary John B. Connally turned in a strong performance. But he did not always have the best lines, as in an exchange with Rep. George W. Andrews, D-Ala., about revenue sharing. Andrews said he hadn't made up his mind.

The story line called for a defense by Connally, McCracken and Budget Director George P. Shultz of the 1972 budget, the concept of gearing spending to the revenues that would be produced if the economy were at a full-employment level, and general administration policies aimed at dampening inflation while stimulating employment.

It had all pretty much been said before. The counterpoint by committee members was just as predictable.

There was no indication whether the committee, after the budget session that continuing today, would revert to its old closed-door habits.

Opening the historic televised session, Mahon said: "This committee is 105 years old. We thought a little experimentation might not be out of order."

any time Railpax "considers it to be consistent with prudent management," said a board spokesman, "and any state, regional or local agency may request extra service if they are willing to pay at least two-thirds of any deficit that may be incurred."

Railroads which don't participate in Railpax will be required to continue all their passenger trains until July 1, 1975.

Looking at Railpax from a sales standpoint, one official calls it "the greatest marketing challenge of the century ..."

"We'll need solid public support. The public is going to have to realize that we can't have all new trains running by May 1... But we will be accepting from the railroads only the best equipment they have available

"And we'll put an emphasis on marketing. We've got some top people working on developing a corporate identity—from the symbols we use to the choice of colors to paint the cars."

"We've got to take all the cats and dogs out of the system. The dirty seats and broken windows will go. And we'll put an emphasis on marketing. We've got some top people working on developing a corporate identity—from the symbols we use to the choice of colors to paint the cars."

"We'll do what has to be done to make the passenger comfortable and make him want to ride with us again, including making our ticket rates competitive."
